

Get ahead with us!

Creative Weblogging is a high-class blog media network situated in Palo Alto, California – in the heart of sunny Silicon Valley.

For complementing our team we are searching with immediate effect an employee

Online Marketing Manager (m/f) USA

We are looking for a handyman, who's dedicated with this ambitious and responsible position.

Entrepreneurial thinking and acting, independent acting as well as much creativity are very important for this position. You go for a diversified activity on a developing market, which offers exciting possibilities.

Your main tasks:

- Customer service of our current clients
- New acquisition of direct clients and agencies
- Consulting, sales and presentation
- Development and expansion of strategies
- Development and service of existing clients
- Customer-related scheduling of budget and account
- Presence at events and exhibitions - present

Our requirements:

- Finished study course (business studies, commercial information technology or alike) in combination with at least 2 years practical experience in sales, ideally in the Division of Online-Marketing
- Affinity for Online-Marketing as well as technical know-how linked with
- Negotiation skill, amusement in selling and consulting
- Firm exposure to MS Office, especially Power Point and Excel
- Self dependent and results-oriented function
- Strong communicative skills and high engagement
- Energy, patience, and ambition
- Excellent English skills

Would you like to take this chance? Then just send us your completed application documents with the earliest date of start as well as your desired salary to

Sonja Schweigert: Sonja@creative-weblogging.com